1. The Kwangsi Military District issued special orders to the nine military sub-districts to the effect that they should make preparations between 5 and 20 December 1951 for winter training of militia units under their control. These orders were issued in accordance with resolutions passed by the People's Armed Force meeting of the Kwangsi Military District for increasing the tempo of militia training.
2. The nine military sub-districts of Kwangsi have organized a total of 34 short-term training classes with an enrollment of 4,400 militia cadre personnel who will be political and military directors during the winter militia training. These men were assigned from among chiefs of militia units, disabled soldiers, and political directors who had received previous short-term training in various Armed Force training classes.
3. The political training given in these classes was as follows:
 - a. Anti-American, Aid-Korea patriotic training.
 - b. Methods of organizing the militia.
 - c. Winter increase-production training, stressing production for self-preservation.
 - d. Coordination of the land-reform service, stressing the completion of the land-reform movement.
 - e. Development and reorganization of militia units through an increase of political consciousness among the militia and the training of active elements in the militia (sic).
